Hello,

The harvest revenue prices for corn, soybeans, and both oil and confectionary sunflowers were announced. They are $4.75, $12.63, $.347, and $.444, respectively. Because the price election increased from Spring to Fall, you need to have a production loss to qualify for an MPCI loss payment.

	Spring	Harvest
Corn	$4.62	$4.75
Soybeans	$11.09	$12.63
Sunflowers – oil	$.294	$.347
Sunflowers – confection	$.376	$.444

Therefore we will not have any revenue losses for corn, soybeans, or either oil or confectionary sunflowers. But, the higher Harvest Price will result in a higher indemnity for those of you with production losses. If you have a production loss, notify us within 15 days from the end of that crop's harvest. Please do your math and let me know if we should open up a loss for you on your crops. If you are unsure, it is always easier to open up a loss and release it later.

Respectfully,

Norm Tyler
